Queen, Attendants, Sponsors To Be Presented At Annual Military Ball Tomorrow

Formal Ceremonies to Begin at 10 o'clock; Gov. A. B. Chandler Among Principal Guests

ANSON WEEKS' BAND TO PLAY AT AFFAIR

Dance Will Be from 8:30 'till 12 o'clock; Ben Fowler to Preside

By DAVE SALYERS
Resplendent with guns, gals, and governors, and featuring the crowning ceremonies of the ball queen and pledging of new men to Seaboard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, the 1937 Military Ball will swing into action tomorrow night in the Alumni gymnasium to the melodies of Anson Weeks and his band, with hours from 8:30 until 12 o'clock. Formal ceremonies will begin at 10 o'clock, at which time Emily Settle, Frankfort, Kappa Kappa Gamma, recently chosen by a committee of Lexington newspapermen as queen, will be crowned by Ben Fowler, president of Seaboard and Blade.

This year a special throne has been erected for the queen, being

In order to handle the large crowd expected at the dance, an extra check room has been set up and will be located in the men's locker room in the basement of the gym. Paul Slaton, chairman of the dance committee, announced yesterday. Slaton also announced that advance sale of tickets will officially end at 6 p. m. tomorrow. After this hour tickets may be obtained only at the door at the dance and will be $2 per couple or stag.

set on the lawn of a replica of Mt. Vernon. A new arrangement for guests of honor has also been made, a terrace having been constructed at the north end of the gymnasium. Opposite this terrace will be a fort with barbed wire and machine guns, and a large flag and picture of George Washington.

Following the crowning of the queen, formal pledging of new members of Seaboard and Blade will be held. Each of the pledges will be presented to the queen by a member of the organization and she will formally pledge them by touching them with a sword in the ancient manner of kings conferring knighthood. New men who will be pledged are Roger Brown, Fred Flowers, Bob Freeberg, Frank Gaines, Clarence Wolfe, James Holt, Baylor Landrum, Sam Nesbitt, Orville Patton, Arthur Plummer, John Traynor, Joe Williams, Stanley Hayes, Joe Hicks, Samuel McDonald, Earl Franklin, Coleman Judy, Phillip Porterfield, William Slater, William Baker, Charles Maddox, J. Rice Walker, and Jack Hoover.

Principal guests of honor at the affair will be Gov. and Mrs. A. B. Chandler, Lieut.-Gov. and Mrs. Keen Johnson, Adj.-Gen. and Mrs. (Continued on Page Four)

Student Union Bids To Be Advertised

$230,000 Club House Ready For Formal Bidding March 22

Bids for the new Student Union building, to be erected at a total cost of $230,000, will be advertised for Monday and will be opened on March 22 in the office of President Frank L. McVey, officials of the building program announced Wednesday.

Under the present plans, the new building will include three stories of brick and tile construction. On the ground floor will be a soda grill, men's lounge, lavatories, barber shop, cafeteria and kitchens, and two smaller dining rooms.

A large lounge, game rooms, reading and social rooms, and rooms for student organizations will be placed on the first floor of the building. On the top floor, the ballroom, which will be 72 by 140 feet and large enough to handle any University dance, will be situated. Conference rooms for faculty and student meetings will also be on this floor.

SOUR MASH SPONSORS SHOW

A spring style show, displaying the latest fashions in hairdress, evening and sport clothes, and shoes for the University coed, was held last night in the recreation room of Patterson hall under the sponsorship of Sour Mash, campus humor magazine. The clothes were modeled by popular campus coeds. A large number of women students were present.

RIHANI SPEAKS AT CONVOCATION

Discusses Idiosyncracies of Arabian Kings and British Treatment of Native Arabs

"East and West have always met in the country of my birth as well as in the country of my adoption," Ameen Rihani, native Syrian, said in an address Tuesday morning at the University monthly convocation in Memorial hall.

Mr. Rihani discussed chiefly the political and personal ambitions, contributions, idiosyncracies and personal magnetism of Arabian kings, and made several comments on British treatment of the Arabs. In Arabia, unlike other kingdoms, he pointed out, one must see the king before he sees anyone else. "In Arabia the king is your host your bureau of information, the key to the city and the keeper of the gate, and to be permitted to know Arabia, one must first have the sanction of the king. There are now more than 100 rulers in Arabia, kings, sultans, emirs, etc.," he said.

In commenting on British protection of the Arabs, Dr. Rihani stated that many of the protectorates are a measure of protection for the British rather than for the Arabs, and that the Arabs are paid by the British government to protect the cities and the British population rather than exerting protective measures for the benefit of the Arabs. "This phase of British policy in Arabia is the most objectionable and unjust to the Arabs," Dr. Rihani said.

President Frank L. McVey presided at the convocation and introduced Dr. Rihani. Invocation and benediction were delivered by Dr. T. C. Eaton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church.

Concert Band to Be Featured At Sunday Musicales

Original March By Robert Griffith To Be Played

The University concert band will play for the Sunday afternoon musicale at 4 o'clock Feb. 28 in Memorial hall. The band will be under the direction of John Lewis.

A feature of the program will be a march written by Robert Griffith, a senior at the University and a member of the band. The march is entitled "Little Colonel" and is dedicated to John Lewis.

Also on the program will be a cornet solo by Jack McCarthy and selections by the French horn sextet, composed of Roy Bean, John Harvey, John McFarland, Leslie Munger, Robert Saxton, and Henry Zimmerman.

'CATS TO MEET L.S.U. QUINTET IN TOURNEY TODAY

Starting Line-Up Remains Uncertain As Ruppmen Practice In Knoxville

GEORGIA TECH RANKED FAVORITE IN MEET

Game To Be Broadcast Over Radio Station KNOX Of Knoxville

By MACK HUGHES
With its star forward, Ralph Carlisle, still weak from the ravages of flu, the Kentucky basketball team planned to rest until nearly game time today, prior to meeting the high scoring Louisiana State quintet in the second game of the opening round of the Southeastern basketball tournament which will begin this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the University of Tennessee field house at Knoxville. The Wildcats-L. S. U. tilt is scheduled to start at 3:30 o'clock.

Coach Adolph Rupp and 11 Wildcat players arrived in Knoxville at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and immediately went to one of the city's high school basketball floors for a brief work-out. After supper at the Farmington hotel, their headquarters while staying in Knoxville, the Blue and White team went to an early show and then to bed.

Although entertaining high hopes that Kentucky will go far in this year's tournament, Coach Rupp refused to give his opinion on the outcome of the games other than the fact that he thought that the teams in the tourney were of a very high calibre. If the Wildcats get by L. S. U. they will have to meet, in all probability, the top-ranked Georgia Tech team. Tech is heavy favorite to defeat Mississippi State in the opening game of the meet.

Coach Rupp is still undecided on the starting line-up for this afternoon's game. If Carlisle is still ailing, Bernard Opper will get the call in his position. It is not yet certain whether Thompson or Walker will start at the center post, but Thompson seems to be favored at the present. Haggin will hold down the other forward post, while Walter Hodge and Captain Donohue are scheduled to start as guards.

If the Cats win this afternoon they will play the winner of the Tech-Mississippi State game at 8 o'clock Saturday night in one of the semi-final matches. Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, and Georgia will fight it out in the lower bracket for the honor of meeting the winner of the upper bracket in the finals Monday night.

All of the games will be broadcast over station KNOX in Knoxville.

U. K. IN LINE FOR ANNUAL $25,000

Congressional Bill Calls For Research Allotment To All Land Grant Colleges And Universities

Under terms of a measure introduced in Congress this week, the University is placed in position to receive a grant of $25,000 each year from the federal government for engineering research and experimental work. Dean James H. Graham of the College of Engineering announced Wednesday.

In commenting on the measure, a printed copy of which he received recently, Dean Graham praised the measure "as allowing the engineering schools of land grant colleges to carry on research and experimental work in which they have been handicapped during past years."

The research would be carried on along the same lines as that conducted by the College of Agriculture under terms of its annual $25,000 (Continued on Page Four)

Fraternity Leaders Favor Modification Or Abolition, Questionnaire Replies Show

HOW THE PRESIDENTS FEEL

The following questions were asked presidents of the social fraternities. They were worded in such a manner that the answers could be either personal or could reflect the feeling of the chapter as a whole. Replies of both types were received.

Leaders Of Greek Houses Say They Will Support Kernel's Campaign To Abolish Custom

OLD PRACTICE RAPIDLY GOING, THEIR CLAIM

10 Of 17 Lodges Represented In Answers Already Received

Responding to a questionnaire mailed last week by The Kernel, presidents of 10 social fraternities on the campus gave clear indications that the traditional form of hell week is going out of existence, and that, in many cases, steps have already been taken to abolish it.

In all cases but one, where hell week is being carried on, the house leaders answered that they recognized the appearance that the sentiment was changing from the desire for a period in which pledges would undergo physical and mental mistreatment, for a desire for instructional period.

All but one of the presidents stated that their houses would assist in a general movement to abolish or modify the present system.

From the letters, it was definitely ascertained that but one of the presidents of the 17 lodges are opposed to physical punishment in the training period.

The four queries sent to the presidents were:

(1) Does your house believe in or permit hell week in its traditional form (physical punishment, etc.)? (2) Does there seem to you, in regard to this question, to be growing sentiment for a period of instruction, rather than one of mistreatment, interference with class work, etc.?

(3) Are you taking steps to abolish the traditional form, or, (4) Is your group willing to cooperate in attempts to abolish the custom?

Of the 10 replies thus far received by The Kernel, eight answered the first question negatively, eight the second question affirmatively, eight wrote "yes" after the third query, and seven stated they would assist in abolishing it, which was the fourth question asked.

While several of the presidents said they still believed in the traditional form, it was apparent from their replies that they recognized the urgent need that all Greek-letter societies abolish such a form of hazing.

Ken Raynor, president of the Delta Chi house, was the only exception to this. In explaining his stand, he declared that the paddle is used for disciplinary purposes only, and that their hell-week afforded pleasure to both active and pledges. While in effect this seems to be a modified usage of the custom, the spirit of the old-fashioned week still seems to prevail.

As head of the Delta Tau Delta house, Ike M. Moore said that hell week was used in a modified form at his house, but that it was fast on the wane, and that cooperation would be forthcoming in movements to abolish it.

In conversations with several of the presidents, The Kernel learned that the majority of fraternities this year plan to substitute a probation week of instruction, and while some of them stated that a small amount of paddling would be done, no "missions or road-work" would be conducted as in the past.

Kampus Kernels

The next All-Campus dance will be held in the Alumni gymnasium Friday night, March 12, from 8 to 10:30 o'clock. Dean T. T. Jones announced yesterday.

All women interested in swimming please sign up at the women's gym by Tuesday, March 2.

All representatives who took part in the 1937 Kentuckian sales campaign last fall are requested to be present at a meeting from 2 to 3 p. m. today in room 50 McVey hall. This meeting is being held for the purpose of making arrangement for the collection of the balances due on the 1937 Kentuckian sales.

All girls interested in taking part in "play day" at Cincinnati please sign up in Miss Averill's office and designate which sport they wish to participate in. Matches will be held in swimming, basketball, tennis, and deck tennis. (Continued on Page Four)

Latest Fashions In Second Section

Special articles and advertisements dealing with the latest in spring styles for both men and women will be found in section two in this, the annual Spring Fashion edition, of The Kernel.

In both articles and advertisements can be found styles which will be particularly in style, during the months to come, among college "eds" and "co-eds."

Fourth Play Cast Is Announced By Guignol Theatre

"Petticoat Fever" Will Be Presented Week Of March 15

The cast for "Petticoat Fever," a three-act farce, and the next production of the Guignol players, has been announced by Frank Fowler, director of the theatre. This will be Mr. Fowler's first production since his recent return from California.

Dascom Dinsmore, a lonely wireless operator, will be taken by Mr. Fowler. Kimbo, his Eskimo house-boy, will be played by Jesse Mountjoy. Walter Kirkpatrick has been cast as Sir James Fenton, and his fiancée, Ethel Campion, will be enacted by Mirna Bloomfield. Kathryn Conley Wheeler will play the part of Clara Wilson, to whom Dinsmore is engaged. The Eskimo women, Little Seal and Snow Bird, will be portrayed by Jean Abel and Jessie Sun. Wallace Briggs is cast in the role of the Reverend Arthur Shapham, and the part of Captain John Landry will be taken by Mason McIntosh.

Entire action of the comedy takes place in a lonely wireless station on the coast of Labrador. Dinsmore, the operator, falls in love with lovely Ethel Campion, the first beautiful woman that he has seen in two years, who, with her fiancée, Sir James Fenton, is forced to seek shelter at the station when their plane crashes on isolated Eskimo Point. The unexpected appearance of Clara Wilson, Dinsmore's bride-to-be, causes unforeseen complications, resulting in many amusing situations.

THIRD KERNEL SPONSORED 'COLLEGE NIGHT' TO FEATURE APPEARANCE OF GLEE CLUB

Featuring the 50-voice University Glee club under the direction of Prof. Carl Lampert, the third of The Kernel - sponsored "College Nights" will take place at 8 o'clock tonight at the Kentucky theatre.

It has been stressed by manager J. D. Ensminger of the theatre, that the special "College Night" program will commence promptly at 8 o'clock. Consequently the coupons which will be found elsewhere in today's issue of The Kernel and which are redeemable for either one or two admissions, must be presented before that time. These coupons entitled college students to be admitted tonight for the afternoon admission price.

Included in the special program besides the personal appearance of the Glee club, will be several shorts of particular interest to college students. Among these shorts is a "bouncing ball" reel which enables the audience to accompany the orchestra on the screen. A sports short, a famous orchestra reel, a comedy, and a cartoon make up the remainder of the program. As usual, cheering and singing will take place prior to the showing of the screen attractions.

The feature picture of the evening will be "Women of Glamour," starring Virginia Bruce and Melvyn Douglas. It is a story of modern sophisticated life, the plot weaving around an artist (Douglas) and a night entertainer (Virginia Bruce).

Written by the same author who penned "Theodora Goes Wild," it is a fast moving cinema with clever dialogue throughout. Supporting Virginia Bruce and Melvyn Douglas in this "blue ribbon" picture are Reginald Denny, Pert Kelton, and Leone Mariele. It was also announced by the management that the University band is scheduled to present a program at the fourth "College Night" which will take place a week from today.

ODK WILL VOTE ON SENIOR MEN

Leaders To Hold Special Election For Last Year Men; Points Must Be In By Tuesday Noon

A special election for seniors will be held by Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary fraternity for campus leaders, Tuesday afternoon, March 30, in White hall. Points must be turned in to The Kernel business anytime between today and Tuesday noon.

Under the new point system, a point list must be filled out and signed by the person in charge of the activity given. These charts may also be obtained in The Kernel business office.

Members of O. D. K. said the special election is being held in order that seniors who are now eligible for membership may attend the national convention of the fraternity in Atlanta, April 1, 2, and 3. The regular spring election will be held in May as usual for both senior and junior men, it was announced. The eligibility committee for the election is composed of James Shropshire, chairman, Ike M. Moore, and Ernest Shovea.

Writer-Missionary To Be Presented

Dr. E. Stanley Jones Speaks Here Under YM-YW Auspices

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, traveler, lecturer, author, and missionary, will speak at two open meetings on Tuesday, March 2, the first being presented at 4 p. m. in Memorial hall, and the second at 8 o'clock in Woodland auditorium, under the auspices of the Y W C. A. and Y. M. C. A.

Famous for his work in India, where he organized the India Round-Table discussions on the religions of India, for the purpose of seeking a common faith, Dr. Jones has been making a tour of the universities throughout the United States under the sponsorship of the Federal Congress of Churches.

Dr. Jones is the author of a number of books on India, where he has worked since his graduation from Asbury college. Some of his books are "Christ of the Round-Table," "Christ of the Indian Road," and "Christ of Every Road." He will leave for India immediately after his visit to Lexington next week.

HERE SHALL THE KERNEL ALL

STUDENT RIGHTS MAINTAIN

THIS WAY OUT, HELL WEEK

The streamer headline on page one is self-explanatory. It reveals exactly what The Kernel has believed for some time: Undergraduate leaders of social fraternities are against the hell week of a bygone collegiate era. This applies to graduate leaders, also.

Along with the gaily decorated Model T Ford, hell week, as a symbol of the rah-rah collegiana period, has passed out. There is no place for it in the current collegiate curriculum.

It is good to note that Greek-letter leaders are realizing that so long as fraternity life is associated with hell week, there is danger that the entire system will follow in the steps of the Model T.

About the only excuse advocates of hell week can offer now is that they "get to know the boys." By breaking down a freshman until every condition he has come to recognize as civilized and politic in the scheme of things is stripped from him, may be one way to learn to know a fellow, but there are other ways which would be pleasanter and much more intelligent.

As for the survey made of the fraternity presidents on the campus, while not all the replies have yet been received, it is plainly to be seen that a tangible and positive sentiment against the custom exists, and that the majority of the presidents are willing to help eliminate it from the campus.

What this movement now needs is the active and energetic aid of some central campus group. The Interfraternity Council is the logical organization to act upon the matter, but it has thus far proved to be so lethargic and sluggish about the matter that we would seem to be overly optimistic in hoping that the Council would bring the question to a head.

The Kernel is always hesitant about asking the administration to take a hand in affairs which rightfully should be handled by undergraduate management, but if the hell week problem cannot be worked out by a properly appointed and empowered commission representing fraternities, we feel that it would be no breach of faith if we did so.

We might advise the administration, and some fraternity men, also, that the problem of abolishing hell week is a serious one, and that only those who are earnest in their efforts to improve the general status of the Greek-letter system, should attempt in its solution.

Seemingly So...

By ODIS LEE HARRIS

Your writer was fortunate during his graded school days to take piano lessons for some six years. The one experience of those six years that stands out like a sore toe is the time when he received a rap across the knuckles for trying, vainly but earnestly, to play a "hot" chorus of the "St. Louis Blues." During that six years, popular music was taboo and the works of the so-called masters were the dish, morning, noon, and night. And now after 25 years of existence, a slowly crystallized suspicion comes to light, to the effect that music, like all other ingredients for human consumption, is likely to contain hash.

Just why music that has a tune to it must necessarily be classed as fit only for the popular masses remains somewhat of a mystery, and why true musicians must clothe themselves in raiment of artistic temperament is a greater one.

The manner in which Bach, Mozart, or any of the so-called masters progressed from note A to note F is their business. And just how we are to do the same remains ours. When and why music classicism became a criterion of culture is unknown; for art in music becomes little more than mechanical routine in view of the fact that its value is judged by its form of pattern which in turn must abide by classicism rules.

A performance by any great artist—with the exception of vocalist—easily establishes the fact that the genius of the artist is due mostly to his or her technique, by having mastered intricate fingering, tonguing, and the like. Considering that the music is seldom original with most performers, they must then trust to their technique and interpretation to bear the marks of their genius.

On this basis it follows that a successful rendition is due mainly to mechanical perfection, and the performer is more of a machine or robot than a personality. The professional horseshoe pitcher who can throw ringer after ringer without missing must then be an artist eligible for temperament—with the accent on the first six letters. For his claim of genius, as does the musician's, depends on the technique and the interpretation with which it is applied. The material, which each works with, namely music and horseshoes, is original with neither.

Good music is the kind of music that pleases the listener, regardless of whether it is from the classics, the "horse opera," or the modern swing variety; and the advocates of either kind have no right to declare the others as being a musical reprobate. The appreciation of any music lies within one's self and not in the musical mechanics, for music when stripped to its basic element, becomes nothing more than a systematic attack on the emotions.

UK Studios Exhibit Radio Instruments

Large amplifiers and rectifier tubes are the center of interest of the radio tube exhibit now on display in the basement of the Administration building, which is sponsored by the radio extension studios under the direction of Elmer G. Sulzer.

Ten tubes, seven of which were used in the WHAS transmitting station in Louisville, compose the exhibit. The seven tubes from WHAS are 25,000 watt three element R. F. amplifier tubes, a 1,000 volt power supply mercury vapor rectifier tube, a 100 watt three element R. F. tube, and two 17,000 volt power supply mercury vapor rectifier tubes. These tubes, which are discarded after 5,000 hours of service, originally cost more than $400 each.

Anson Weeks Plays At Military Ball Tomorrow

The annual military ball, which is one of the most colorful and elaborate events of the year, will be sponsored by Scabbard and Blade from 8:30 until 12 o'clock Saturday evening in the Alumni gymnasium. Anson Weeks and his well-known orchestra will play for the evening.

During intermission formal pledging of the newly-elected Scabbard and Blade members, and the crowning of the Military Queen will be held. Emily Settle, Frankfort, Kappa Kappa Gamma, is the queen. Jean Pat Belt, Midway, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Pat O'Rear, Frankfort, Chi Omega, will act as the queen's attendants.

The gymnasium will be elaborately decorated in red, white, and blue. The Queen's throne will be situated in the form of a replica of Mount Vernon, and in another corner will be a large model fort. Other decorations will include a Colonial flag, a huge American flag, and the Kentucky State flag. Red, white, and blue balloons will be suspended from the ceiling and released during intermission.

Chaperones will be Gov. and Mrs. A. B. Chandler, Lieut.-Gov. and Mrs. Keene Johns, President and Mrs. Frank L. McVey, Adj.-Gen. and Mrs. Lee McClain, Dean and Mrs. Paul Boyd, Dean and Mrs. T. T. Jones, Dean Sarah Blandin, Dean Sarah Holmes, Mayor Reed Wilson.

Col. and Mrs. B. E. Brewer, Major and Mrs. Burton L. Lucas, Major and Mrs. Irvine Scudder, Major and Mrs. Austin Triplett, Major and Mrs. George Randolph, Major and Mrs. Eugene E. Morrow, Major and Mrs. Hiram Fry, Major and Mrs. Charles T. Gallager, Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Donovan, Capt. and Mrs. William Ford, and Capt. and Mrs. Eugene Link.

MRS. G. E. SMITH GIVES TALK ON WASHINGTON

"Washington" was the subject of an address made by Mrs. G. E. Smith, instructor in the department of English, to members of the Lexington Kiwanis club at their weekly meeting Tuesday in the Lafayette hotel.

"There is no person in American history who occupied a correspondingly important position who had the outward placidity and the same inward strong nature at the same time," Mrs. Smith said. "Washington primarily was not a great statesman or soldier, but his qualities as a great man were so strong that they just naturally influenced everything he did."

A Kentucky basketball team, the Ken Rad of Owensboro, reached the semi-finals of the Southern Amateur Invitational tournament before being defeated 38-28 by the Warren company team of Atlanta, Georgia, which later went on and won the tournament.

State Band Directors To Meet Saturday

A meeting of the Kentucky Band Directors' association will be held Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Art Center. Band directors from high schools all over Kentucky are expected to be present. Problems of the high school concert work will be discussed at this meeting.

"Why I Choose CAMELS"

SMILING JIMMIE FOXX—hard-hitting first baseman of Boston Red Sox, says: "I smoke Camels with meals and after for the help they give my digestion."

SIDNEY S. WETZEL, tunnel engineer: "My work involves constant danger. That's why I always smoke Camels. Camels don't frazzle my nerves—ever."

"CAMELS HELP MAKE THE FEELING OF NERVOUS PRESSURE FADE OUT," Says Herbert Weast, Sophomore.

MENTAL WORK—especially long hours of intensive study—can slow up digestion. Herbert Weast, Class of 1939, says: "Camels are a real aid. They help make the feeling of nervous pressure fade out, and get me set for a hearty meal. I work better, too, since I've discovered I get a refreshing 'lift' in energy with a Camel. Camels set me right." Enjoy Camel's costlier tobaccos the whole day through. At mealtimes Camels are an aid to digestion—speeding up the flow of digestive fluids—increasing alkalinity—bringing a sense of ease and well-being. Steady smokers prefer Camels. They are so mild! They don't jangle the nerves, tire the taste, or irritate sensitive throats.

"I'M A SECRETARY," says attractive Jodylyn Libby, "and often have to eat in a hurry. When I smoke Camels at mealtimes I feel on top of the world."

CHIEF ENGINEER George J. Buckingham says: "It's a great strain keeping tons of high-powered machinery under control. Camels help ease the tension."

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

"CAMELS help me keep pepped up," vivacious TWA hostess, Betty Steffen, says. "In my work I see many famous people. And most of them smoke Camels."

"I WANT A CIGARETTE that doesn't jangle my nerves," says master welder Dan Rafferty. "And Camels don't. They go fine with meals too."

By LOUIS HAYNES

THIS AFTERNOON when many of us will be in class rooms, the University basketball team will be engaged in their first match of the Southeastern Conference tournament against Louisiana State's quintet of sharp shooters. This tilt is slated to get under way at 3:30 p. m.

There are many ifs that are connected in this tournament in relationship as to whether we will win or not. First and foremost is whether Ralph Carlisle, star forward, will be in good shape after an attack of the flu to play. He was too sick to even be on the bench last Monday night when the 'Cats laid it on Xavier, but Wednesday afternoon he was up and said he was feeling pretty good, but still a little weak.

With Carlisle in the line-up the Big Blue seem supplied with a certain something that ends toward better playing and more unity. He gives more scoring punch to the team which was sadly lacking in the Xavier game. The defense exhibited in this game was pretty good, and if it should remain that way against the Louisiana five, the Bayou Tigers are going to have a mighty tough time.

The University swimming team are again peeved about their lack of a swimming pool. They point out that a certain high school in Iowa have three swimming pools, one for girls and two for boys. They say that if one high school can have three pools why can't a state university have at least one place in which to hold meets with other state schools and universities.

Last week the squad opened the Eastern season for them by trimming the Eastern State teachers.

Sponsors of the R. O. T. C., named recently from candidates for the queen, will also be presented at the dance. They are Pat O'Rear, Chi Omega, and Jeanne Pat Belt, Kappa Kappa Gamma, battalion sponsors will act as attendants to the queen: Mamie Maddox, Chi Omega; Mary Lou Stark, Chi Omega; Evelyn McAllister, Alpha Gamma Delta; Evelyn Flowers, Delta Delta Delta; Dorothy McCamlish, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Irene Sparks, Kappa Delta.

last year's freshman's bunch with which to mold another team.

Even though our University boys lost out at Chicago in the Golden Gloves tournament, we must not forget that they had to meet the best amateurs in the nation. This column offers congratulations to all—even going down in defeat they show courage and gameness that is not always found in the loser. At the time this is written Paul Dulin is still in the running for the featherweight title. He is to fight today and if he wins will return to Lexington and on March 5 will go back to Chicago to fight in the semifinals which are to be held then. These semi-finalists will be 32 boys out of the ten or twelve thousand who entered the Golden Gloves competition.

For the benefit of all those who have not been to the gym to see the intramural basketball games, I would suggest that you do so at once. Many of the contests are close and hard fought and are well worth your time. The Phi Tau and Triangles along with several other teams look to be the cream of the crop.

Fourteen Changes Get Committee Nod

Land Purchase, Resignation, Appointments, Leaves Approved

Fourteen changes of personnel, and financial reports of the athletic association, the bookstore, and the flood-relief fund were approved by members of the executive committee at a meeting in Dr. Frank L. McVey's office Wednesday afternoon.

The purchase of a 20-acre tract of land at Quicksand, Ky., for use by the experiment sub-station at that place was also approved by the committee.

Appointments made by the committee were Miss Helen L. Morgan, assistant home demonstration agent of Pike county; Miss Jeanne Taylor Ireland, assistant home demonstration agent of McCracken county; Paul E. Carraco, assistant county agent of Clark county; W. J. Johnson, field agent in agronomy; Miss Elma Rood, assistant in the hygiene department; Miss Lela Mason, music teacher in the University Training school; Miss Ruth McDonald, technician in the animal husbandry department; Miss Nora Belle Heflin, teacher at the University Training school; and Leslie Beitz, critic teacher at the University Training school.

Prof. Frank Murray and Prof. C. G. Lattimer were granted sabbatical leaves for the school year 1937-38, and R. C. Miller, field agent in animal husbandry, was granted an indefinite leave of absence. Resignations accepted were those of Thomas M. Quisenberry, county agent of Robertson county; and W. T. Forsee, assistant chemist at the experiment station.

J. B. Andrews, Newport, presided at the meeting in the absence of Judge Richard Scoll. Other members attending included R. Miller Holland, Owensboro; James Park, Lexington; Doctor McVey, and D. H. Peak, business agent.

Additional Funds For NYA Workers Have Been Granted

An additional allotment under the National Youth Administration for students from the flood areas has just been granted by the federal government and will become effective immediately. The additional allotment will mean a $1,200 increase in the monthly payroll of the University to students working under the NYA.

The University received 80 additional units. Each unit is equal to $15 a month, and means that an additional sum of $4,800 will be paid out to NYA students during the rest of the year. This additional $1,200 a month makes the total monthly payroll of the NYA $9,120.

McVEY TO HOLD MEETING

Pres. Frank L. McVey will hold a meeting with all members of the Interfraternity Council and all fraternity officers, including advisors, at 7 o'clock Monday night, March 1, in room 111, McVey hall.

CLASSIFIED ADS

FLOWERS—Cossages $1 up. Floral decorations for every occasion. Phone or see Billy Beck, 4185; or Charles Gary, 4624.

By BETTY EARLE

Since we're honoring Miss Spring today, let's do ourselves up to greet her! Suppose we start with dresses from B. B. Smith's—Carolyns, in fact.

As is the case each year about this time, prints seem to be in the foreground for popularity. They're a sort of stimulant for that bottom-dropped-out-of-the-bucket feeling between winter and spring. Carolyn presents a black frock of crepe Romaine embroidered at intervals with sheafs of flowers in pastel shades. A grosgrain ribbon belt caught at the side by a small bunch of spring blossoms brings out the tints of the frock. Two navy crepe Romaines offer unique trims—soft pink silk pique on one and hundreds of tiny white buttons arranged in rows of three around the neck and all the way to the hem.

Probably you will consider a hat next. Meyer and Hinkle has quite a number that will catch your eye. There are many types of straw, so you have only to choose. A shallow-crowned, flat-topped wine red of fine straw is attractive. Rick-rack of navy grosgrain encircles the turned-up brim, ending in a wide bow at the back. Perhaps you like something more "prissy"—then try the little roll-brimmed affair topped by loops of cerise ribbon and a stiff veil.

Now for some shoes — Mitchell, Baker, and Smith says, "Your first spring shoes must be of gabardine." Many retain the front height so popular during the fall and winter season. One of the most graceful looking styles is that fashioned of narrow panels coming up to cross over the instep, then enclosing your heel. Pumps have broad, flat bows to liven them up.

For sturdy walking oxfords, look in at Collie's, where the specialty is this type for you. (Bucksins are very smart this spring.)

To brighten up your spring suit or to accentuate one of the colors in your print silk, use a shiny patent leather purse. You might even like a belt to match. Wolf-Wile's has them in black, blue, red, and brown. The clever shapes of the purses won't let you by their count—without at least one backward glance. You'll find box bags resembling miniature suitcases, flat drums, or pouches pleated into pleasing styles—with or without handles. The latter are actually smarter and so much easier to carry because you simply can't lose them. Match your gloves with your "money-bag" or select cream fabric or natural pigskin glove for that necessary neutral tone. Of course, ehamois, kid, and pigskin are with us again in brown, black, gray, blue, cream, white, and London tan.

For a simple sports suit, you'll like a Linen Lady blouse at Purcell's. All styles — and they are many—are furnished with the Gar-dette. One design has a small jabot and collar; another the simple Peter Pan collar, using tucks in the front and banded at the waistline to go around and tie at the back. Tiny pearl buttons trim a third with its pointed collar and pockets. Stripes tucked diagonally are smartly employed in another.

Lovely Valencia knits are to be found only at Denton's—and you'll prefer their softness and quality. Vogue's Debin shirts are also in. Their feminized tailoring will appeal to you. If you're looking for a skirt for school wear, see the flannels pleated all the way around, but stitches only to the hips, so you have plenty of walking room. Then there's a flat tweed in the swing style, diagonally striped. Sport angora sweaters come in Hollywood green, Marlboro blue, and many other shades — with a boat neck. Cashmires come in plain round necks.

By this time you're probably wondering about a coat, since spring insists upon coming so early this year. Shipp's will furnish you with a most luscious looking—and feeling—style of camelshag, a sort of long-napped camel's hair, and English product—of Leeds, Ltd., to be specific. Its tailoring would take the eye of even the most meticulous individual. Its trim is seam-stitching on back, cuffs, and lapels. It has the new high double-breasted effect with six buttons. If you are fond of color for a change, we know you'll like the form-fitted model of a watermelon color—also double-breasted and seam-stitched.

At this point, Tippy begs off—we hope she "snooped" enough for you. Pepper Martin is now the manager of a prize fighter named Junior Munsell.

New Fashions In Women's Wear Are Described

By B. EARLE

Shoulders are still broad, but less noticeably accented; waists are nipped in; fabrics fall snugly over your hips to flare out at the hemline.

Often skirts go straight, but then, too, gores and pleats achieve the flare—particularly at the back. Swing skirts have not entirely gone out of fashion; that interesting swish is still important. As to length: slightly shorter, probably between 12 and 14 inches from the floor, but they aren't going higher as was predicted in the fall.

All sorts of jackets are in, bringing along the dress and coat combination we could have sworn was definitely out. Watch your materials and see if they aren't exciting.

Sleeves are, in many designs, the dashing note that relieves monotony. They puff and they tuck above your elbow. They come from full broad shoulders into narrow cuffs or bands. Some stop just below your elbow but leave plenty of room at both elbow and shoulder. Some are the simple straight sleeve with the shirtmaker cuff. Still others continue their flare over the wrists to match your skirt flare.

Many collarless necklines are being shown—jabots and frills are in again. If found, collars are of the Peter Pan variety, rounded, squared, or pointed. The classic shirtfront is as popular as ever and equally smart.

This spring promises to be a gay one—colors galore! "Blues and greens are subtly grayed or muddied." Beige makes a comeback. Our old-fashioned colors of eggplant, bottle green, violet blue have become new-fashioned. Reds of rosy tints and hues are here. Gray is popular. Prints are everywhere—from tiny bouquets to huge splashes of color for evening wear. All is very gay, jaunty, and dashing!

TIPS ABOUT TOPS

By BETTY EARLE

Back again this spring with our "tips"—we hope we please and help you in selecting your wardrobe.

They tell us hats are in the news—all of which sounds very prosaic and unromantic. Really, though, it's not! John Bull's famous statesman is said to have inspired the fedora or homburg style, so popular last season. We feminize it this year. Hats, off-the-face as to forehead or side hairline, are supposed to have originated with the Rubens' Exhibit in Paris. Of course, we eagerly watch to see what the new Queen of England will choose. Thus far, only two hats have been made for her and, strangely enough, they are youthful styles. One looks like a small bucket turned upside down on the head, trimmed by grosgrain ribbon flaring into a long-tailed bow at one side of the flat crown. A stiff meshnet veil adds the final touch. President Roosevelt's trip to South America apparently has precipitated the saucer bretons, wide-winged toques, tambourine berets, and bumper brims. The traditional blacks, browns, and navies are removed from the category of "drab" by exciting new spring shades—challenge red, French hyacinth, Alken green, spring violet, Chinese turquoise, and carnation red.

The smartest chapeau today is an off-the-face type. It is a silhouette including bretons, toques, turbans, sailors, Watteaux, and coiffure caps. Hats are more feminine, with their flowers, feathers, veils, ribbons, and soft straws, in close fit. With the advent of these sweeping coiffures, hats show more of the hair than ever. Make the most of a good hairline, if you have one.

Now take your mirror in hand—also a good look—and then make a trip to town for that new bonnet. Selection will be quite easy for anything from the most conservative to the most daring is to be had.

Normalizing The Figure

Long, tedious years of research have definitely established the fact that most men do not look alike. If you are less than two feet eight inches tall, or over eight feet two inches in height—well, you're going to remain a trifle noticeable, that's all. But there are definite rules for normalizing the figure, and here they are.

If you're Short

If you're Tall

The double-breasted Kuppenheimer suit is ideal. If single-breasted suit is preferred, take the three-button type. In patterns, avoid stripes and bold figures.

If you're Stout

Select a two-button, single-breasted Kuppenheimer suit, avoiding too much waist suppression. Keep away from bold checks and plaids. Stripes and plain colors are ideal.

Here's How

Lifting your hat is a passing gesture of politeness shown to women you don't know, and is used whenever you say "excuse me," "thank you," speak, or are spoken to by them.

When your wife trumps your ace at bridge, it is bad taste to kick her shins under the table. (The only correct thing to do is to accidentally drop a lamp on her head.)

BACKING UP A VIEWPOINT

By BO BRUMMEL

For the coming spring season, as with past seasons, new fashions demand their place in the sun. The principal remains the same, but applications change.

The first phase of the fashion picture to be examined is the subject of town wear. Probably the most important contribution to this category during the last year was the introduction of the three-button, peak lapel, and rolled to the second button suits. This spring it will be widely featured and you may be able to view the advanced styles on the third floor of Kaufman's. They are in all the latest styles and shades. The outstanding features of these suits are the new drape in the trousers. They are high waisted and taper off to 19-inch bottom with no break in the trousers. It is, when correct, just above the shoe enough to display the color of the socks.

Socks this spring are plenty loud. They can be seen at Thorpe's, Graves-Cox, and Baynham's. The solid colors are very good in browns and blues, with stripes and plaids dominant.

While on the subject of foot-wear, the shoes of this season will be mostly of the crepe sole type, which are very good for campus wear. The brown Broncos, which are very popular, are shown in all colors. Leather tops are always good and can be obtained in the lace front and buckle strap design.

The shirt of this spring will be a leading feature in the 1937 fashions. Probably the most important type will be the two-tone color shirts with the white collar and cuffs. The collar being the new Arrow Lord Kent. These new styles in Arrow shirts featuring the wide-spread collar are on display at Graves-Cox.

Of the many types of neckwear, that will be displayed for spring, the most important will be the woven type fabrics in flashy colors. Ties made of this material will win greatest favor when obtained in checks and stripes. Foulard neckwear in polka dots of unusual combinations will be seen a great deal and the same is true of the cross stripes.

On the campus, one of the most discussed topics among men are what should be worn to formal and tea dances. To be correct as most of you all know is to wear full dress to the formal with top hat of Homburg, white tie, and tails. The influence of Fred Astaire is seen in the exaggerated batwings of the new evening ties, both in black and white, the ends of which do not extend quite to the edges of the collar wings. Now that spring is almost here, and to be dressed correctly for the spring formal, a dinner jacket (not a mess jacket, they are OUT) will be appropriate for the latter ones. Full dress is always the "tops." A flower for the lapel is correct for full dress. In dinner jackets the double-breasted type models have almost entirely superseded the single-breasted type, and the midnight blue are much more popular than black in the tuxedo.

For the tea dances, the proper dress would be a dark suit with a two-tone shirt and the new wide spread collar. It is also correct to wear dark trousers with a light coat and attachments to match. It is good taste to wear a small flower in the lapel. The shoes for afternoon socials should be in harmony with the rest of the apparel.

AVERAGE MAN'S WARDROBE

By BO BRUMMEL

For the average college man: This is a wardrobe designed by Esquire, some of the things being out of the reach of the average college man, but anyway, it is correct. This spring, town suits will be featured in definite patterns in hard finish worsteds, such as herringbones and diagonals. Double-breasted suits will toll to the bottom button and most of them will have only four buttons. Great popularity is predicted for the two-button peak lapel single-breasted jacket for town. Neither the single nor the double-breasted town suit will have flaps on the pockets and the sleeves will carry four buttons. Campus suits will be cut in the conventional three-button notched lapel model. Light browns and Lovat shades of all kinds will be very smart in Sutherland and Saxony. Gray, the ever-popular spring shade, will again be in evidence, and the shade of brown known as "bronze" should have a strong following. Many of the campus jackets will carry either eight-inch side vents or a longer center vent. Plain backs will be most fashionable for these suits. Topcoats for town will be tailored in double-breasted models of herringbone pattern and double and single-breasted models of covert cloth. Many of the latter will have a fly front and a notched lapel and carry four rows of stitching at the hem and cuffs. The new knee-length coat should have great popularity. The reversible balmacaan will enjoy continued popularity for country wear, or on the campus.

Socks and ties will be featured in the new bold patterns. A recent development in collars is the "slotted collar," imported from England. Checks of all descriptions will be very popular and wool ties will enjoy continued favor for the college man.

Last year we said, "Suits are the things," and this spring we repeat ourselves. As one fashion writer has expressed it, "If cities were thickly studded last year, they should be packed solid this year."

Navy blue and beige are quite the smartest, but there are, besides these, many appealing and luscious looking shades of green, brown, yellow, chartreuse, gold, gray, and even lavender. Those of pin stripe men's wear suiting are more fashionable this season than last. They do say that the "forgotten fabrics" of 1920 (we wouldn't know, would we?) are here again—twills, tricot, and worsteds resembling serge. Some twills are lined with taffeta; others have cut-away jackets (those, 'tis said, have a slenderizing effect by virtue of their upward curve) and sharp revers.

Bo Brummel Explains Blazer

The blazer has long been a staple article of undergraduate wear in England, as well as being associated with boating and tennis. For the first time, however, this interesting garment extended its scope last season when observers noted that many well-dressed men were adopting the blazer jacket for spectator wear at golf matches and for week-end country wear.

The blazer is single-breasted, in a homespun tweed, but in addition to the ones in tweed it can be obtained in wool and highly favored flannel. Popular colors are various shades of dark blue and bottle green. The single-breasted blazer invariably carries brass buttons, while the double-breasted model has black flat top buttons.

Patch pockets are a characteristic of both the single and double-breasted models. Another detail of the blazer is the fact that it carries only one button at the sleeve. The blazer is unlined and has a plain back, except for the occasional double-breasted model with side vents.

The chief significance of this garment lies in its possibilities as a smart and practical item of resort wear. It is in perfect keeping with the informal character of resort dress, and provides an excellent replacement for the checked tweed sports jackets. The latter item is quite appropriate for general country wear, but for informal dress wear it must be rated second to the blazer, which is ideal with white or gray flannel trousers, or with fine patterned trousers, or even with colored bench slacks as part of the smart ensemble that many fashionable men have adopted at southern resorts.
